PROEMIAL TO ELIOT'S ROMOLA.

More than three centuries and a half ago, in the mid springtime of 1492, we are sure that the star-quenching angel of the dawn, as he travelled with broad, slow wings from the Levant to the Pillars of Hercules, and from the summits of the Caucasus across all the snowy Alpine ridges to the dark nakedness of the western isles, saw the same outline of firm land and unstable sea — saw the same great mountain shadows on the same valleys as he has seen to-day — saw olive mounts and pine forests, and the broad plains, green with young corn or rain-freshened grass — saw the domes and spires of cities rising by the river sides or mingled with the sedge-like masts on the many curved sea-coast, in the same spots where they rise to-day. And as the faint light of his course pierced into the dwellings of men, it fell, as now on the rosy warmth of nestling children; on the haggard waking of sorrow and sickness; on the hasty uprising of the hard-handed laborer; and on the late sleep of the night-student, who had been questioning the stars or the sages, or his own soul, for that hidden knowledge which would break through the barrier of man's brief life, and show its dark path that seemed to bend sometimes hither, to be an arc in an immeasurable circle of light and glory. The great river-courses which have shaped the lives of men have hardly changed at all; and those other streams, the life-currents that ebb and flow in human hearts, pulsate to the same great needs, and the same great loves and terrors. As our thought follows close in the slow

PROEM TO ELIOT'S ROMOLA.

Life had zest for the old Florentine when he, too, trod the marble steps and shared in those dignities. His politics had an area as wide as his trade, which stretched from Syria to Britain, but they had also the passionate intensity, and the detailed practical interest which could belong only to a narrow scene of corporate action; only to the members of a community shut in close by the hills and by walls of six miles' circuit, where men know each other as they passed in the street, set their eyes every day on memorials of their community, and were conscious of having not only the right to vote, but the chance of being voted for. He loved his honors and his gains, the business of his trading-house and of his guild, of the council-chamber; he loved his enmities, too, and he fingered the white bean which was to keep a hated name out of the borsa with more complacency than if it had been a golden florin. He loved to strengthen his family by a good alliance, and went home with a triumphant light in his eyes after concluding a satisfactory marriage for his son or daughter, under his favorite loggia in the evening cool; and he loved his game at chess under that same loggia, and his biting jest and even his coarse joke, as not beneath the dignity of a man eligible for the highest magistracy. He had gained an insight into all sorts of affairs at home and abroad; he had been of the "Ten" who had good fortune of being the only Type Founding Company in America able to help the printer on every occasion of emergency.

The prestige thus inherited is actively maintained and extended by worthy successors of the older generation of thorough type founders.

For Prestige

The attention of Printers is most easily secured and the enterprise of type founders most generally measured by the production of novelties in type. While this Company has every reason for accepting such a test of enterprise, additional credit is claimed for a large expenditure of effort and money in improving standard faces such as Romans, Antiques, Gothics, Clarendons, etc., not in the hope of immediate profit, but in pursuance of the policy of thoroughness, and in the belief that the discriminating Printer will select these improved faces in preference to those which still retain the defects of the originals. This work of improvement will be maintained in the future.

found that it was originated by some one of the Foundries of this Company. During the past year this Company has produced more effective designs in Type, Borders and Florets than ever before in a similar period. It would be tedious to name them, as they include over five hundred varieties of sizes and faces.

Notable Designs

Two recent series, however, deserve mention: Jenson Old Style, made in thirteen sizes, with appropriate initials and decorative pieces, and Bradley, in eight sizes, which will be important factors in lifting typography to a higher plane.

Better Value

This Company is able to sell at fair prices owing to the enormous output of its large Foundries, while the practical value of the Type made is greater, because of the superior cut of faces, the more complete range of sizes in series, and the application of its numerous mechanical patents in type manufacturing. Quality is not sacrificed to prices; the American Type Founders' Company has only one standard—the best.

One of the peculiar features of this series is, that the lower-case letters B, D, H, M, N, P, Q and Y can be used to represent Q, P, Y, W, U, B, D and H, and capital M makes W; figure 7 makes L, and figure 6 makes 9, — an important item for printer, when short of "sorts." The letters line both ways. Logotypes of each size are furnished.

NEW SIGNAL SERVICE SIGNS.

c 48-POINT SIGNAL SERVICE SIGNS—Per font, $2.00.

No. 5 may be used to print in blue over No. 1, in case it is desired to have flag No. 2 represented in its proper color.

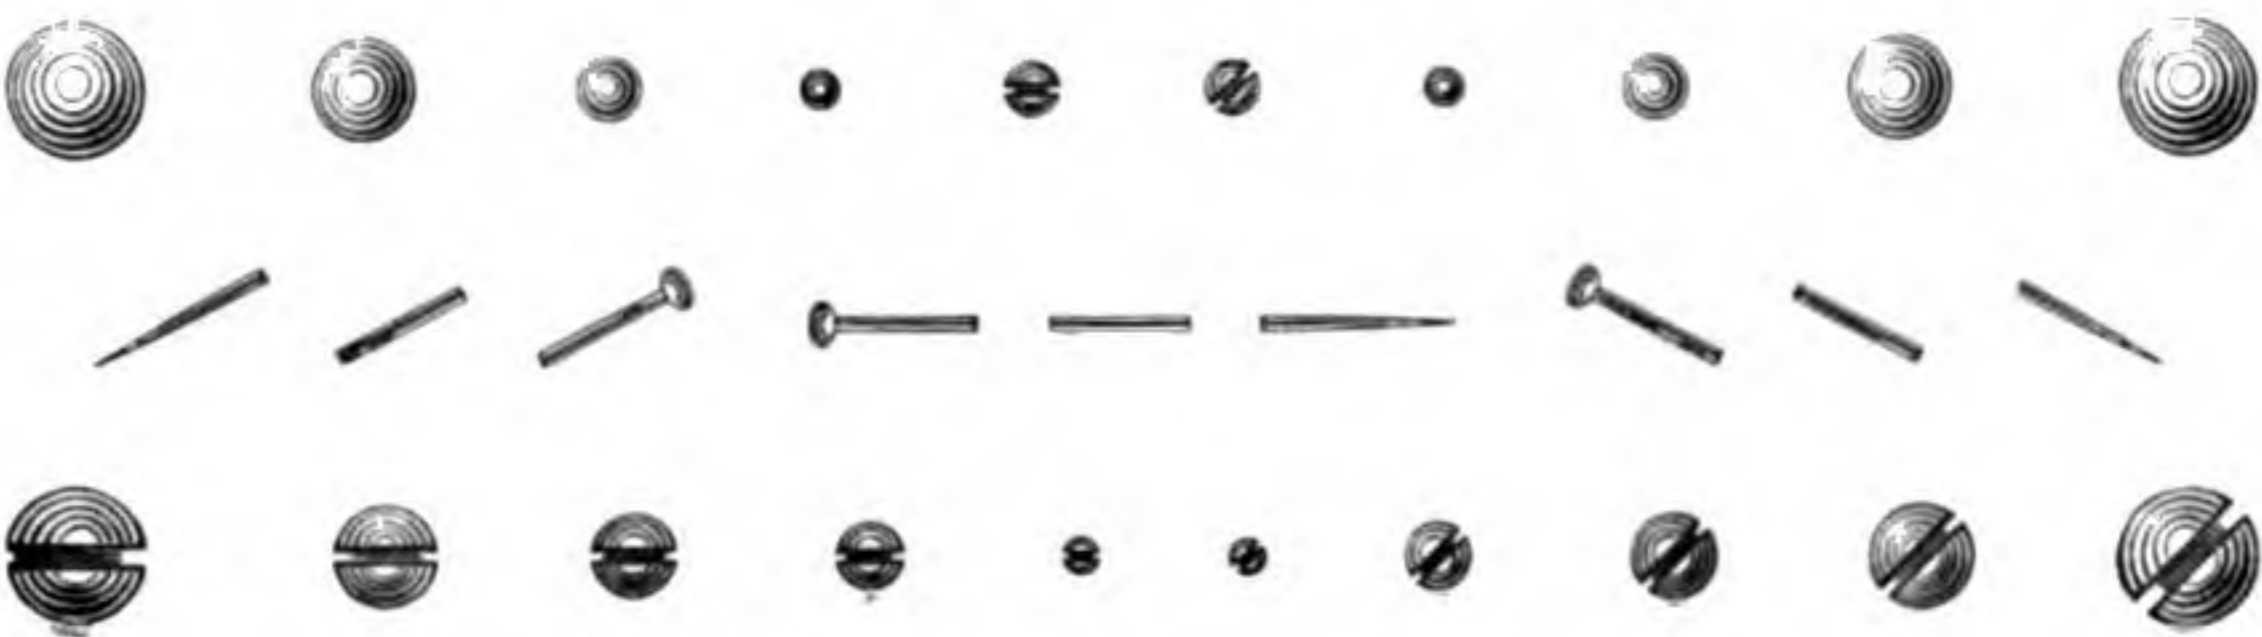

c 24-POINT SIGNAL SERVICE SIGNS—Per font, $1.50.

EXPLANATION OF SIGNALS.—No. 1, White Flag, always indicates clear or fair weather, no rain. No. 2, Blue Flag, indicates rain or snow. No. 3, Black Triangular Flag, always refers to temperature; when placed above or before Nos. 1 or 2 it indicates warmer weather; when placed below or after Nos. 1 or 2 it indicates colder weather. No. 4, Cold Wave Flag, indicates the approach of a sudden and decided fall of temperature.

COPPER ALLOY FINE-DOT LEADERS.

These Leaders are cast with our superior Copper Alloy metal, and are therefore nearly as durable as Brass Leaders, while their cost is only about one third as much. They are cast on the following bodies, and to match any face of our make. Put up in any size fonts required.

DESIRABLE ADDITION TO A USEFUL SERIES.

We will not use the hackneyed phrase about "filling a long-felt want," in offering this 6-Point size of Caledonian Italic to our appreciative printer friends, but will give expression to the opinion that many of them, no doubt, have been wondering why so useful a face has never before been made on a smaller body than 8-Point (or Brevier). As no satisfactory reason could be given for the absence of this size, we have had it cut, and now solicit your commendation of it by giving us many orders for fonts of the same.
